Description of Workcamp:

IWO-71 BUSAN BUSAN 13/07 - 25/07 ENVI 14 vols

Project: Busan, a bustling city of approximately 3.7 million residents, is located on the southeastern tip of the Korean peninsula. Its geography includes a coastline with superb beaches and scenic cliffs, mountains which provide excellent hiking and extraordinary views, and hot springs scattered throughout the city. Every year many tourists visit this well known city for vacations at beautiful beaches and for visit to annual PIFF (Busan International Film Festival). The aim of this project is to organize eco-village in the middle of Busan city. This movement will be the big step for the local society to find the way of living with nature in cosmopolitan city.

Work: Volunteers will mainly be involved in remodeling Mulmang village into the eco-village. And they will also participate other activities related to Oncheon Cheon (Korean name for hot spring stream) such as maintenance around the stream and supporting eco-movie festival.

Extra activities: There are many beautiful beaches and sightseeing places, traditional temples to experience Buddhism during the free time.

Accommodation : Volunteers will stay in eco-village center.

Location : Yeanje-gu, Busan-city, approximately 400 km from Seoul.

Jeju is a volcanic island located at the southernmost of the Korean peninsula. The island of Jeju was formed from volcanic activities that began approximately 1.2 million years ago. Gotjawal is a specific plant union formed naturally on lava-based rocksides that are common all around the Jeju island. Because of its role in clearing the mineral water underground that has been the main source of drinking water of the island, gotjawal is acknowledged for its ecological importance. Gotjawal Saramdeul is an environmental NGO working mainly for enhancing awareness for ecological conservation of gotjawal around the island. One of their main interest is community involvement in development processes. The organization seeks ways of sustainable living. Volunbteers are invited to participate in ecological study tour around the island and engage in local activities to conserve the nature against capital-centered massive development.

Jeju is a volcanic island located at the southernmost of the Korean peninsula. The island of Jeju was formed from volcanic activities that began approximately 1.2 million years ago, creating Mt. Hallasan towering 1,950 meters above sea level at the center of the island as well as numerous oreums (parasitic volcanic cones) scattered around the entire island. The World Heritage Center (WHC) inducted "Jeju Volcanic Island and Lava Tubes" into the World Natural Heritage list, Korea's first such registration on June 27, 2007.

The Geomeun Oreum Heritage Village is in the phase of drastic change since 2008 when the Geomun Oreum lava tube system in the area has been recognized and identified by the government to be a source of attracting tourists. With the World Heritage Center construction and increasing tour visits, the village is interested in building eco-tourism in the area. Besides the small self-sufficient agricultural work, activity in the village centers on the heritage site. Vol. will be involved in village activities related to the heritage and interact with elders to kids.
